(old 69th) Infantry, has reported by wireless that she would reach Sandy Hook shortly after one o'clock this afternoon and would dock as soon afterward as possible.

Col. W. J. Donovan and his staff, who returned with 2,000 members of the regiment Monday, prepared to go down the bay as soon as definite word came that the ship had arrived. Several thousand relatives and friends of the 165th men of the 69th also were waiting to greet them.

Col. Donovan and other officers of the regiment were guests at a lunchcon at the Bankers' Club today.
They had spent the morning at Camp Mills planning the reception to the men of the Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and making additional plans for the parade Monday.

The Colonel will go to the 69th Regiment Armory to-night to meet members of the 165th of the regiment who made the supreme sacrifice. He will talk informally to them. He also plans to write a personal letter to the gold-star mothers and to each man of the regiment who did good work.
It will be in the form of a citation, which the men can keep.

Col. Donovan announced that all men should be in camp Sunday night by taps as all papers will be read then. More than half of the men were out on leave to-day.

Fourteen hundred men of the regiment will go to Camp Upton next week and others will be sent to various encampments for demobilization.

As an illustration of how the regiment's have affected the unit, in Company A alone twenty-eight states are represented. Men from the various States will be sent to the camps nearest their homes.

It was announced today that the 69th's gold star flag will follow the battle flag in the parade. The gold star commemorates 629 enlisted men and 21 officers who gave up their lives.

Perhaps the only man in the regiment who is not overjoyed by the homecoming reception is Lieut.
Francis C. Temple of Company A.
On March 11 his wife died and the next day his three-day-old baby passed away. Lieut. Temple did not learn of the deaths until the day he sailed from France. He formerly lived at New London, Conn., but after marrying a year ago went to live at No.

1179 Clay Avenue, Bronx.

second part of regiment is reported —which is uncertain, Col. Donovan goes to Hoboken to receive comrades; other officers go down the bay).
